Students Take Action for Global Development

Recognizing Canada's International Development Week, the college's International Education Centre (IEC) is hosting a Student Action for Global Development Forum.

This Forum will provide students with resources, information, and opportunities on how to get involved in international development initiatives including information on work, volunteer, and placement opportunities overseas, organizations recruiting English language instruction abroad, international scholarships and internships, and local volunteer opportunities in Ottawa.

In attendance will be over 20 Canadian International Development Organizations. Also, returning Algonquin interns will engage students about the Canadian International Development Agency International Youth Internship Program (IYIP) and their specific internships.
