

MEDIA ADVISORYDate sent: April 19, 2005Date of event: April 20, 2005Algonquin Hosts Summer Academic Institute for Learning (SAIL)
Information Session

Algonquin College will host an information session for the upcoming SAIL (Summer Academic Institute for Learning) transition program. This intensive, two-week program, hosted in partnership with Carleton University, will give students with learning disabilities the opportunity to discover college and university life from a personal, a social and an academic perspective. The project will embark on-line June 28, and on-location July 3, at the Carleton and Algonquin campuses and is offered free to students with a diagnosed learning disability who have recently graduated from high school and have applied to a college or university program for the fall or winter semester.

Who: Louise Legault, Manager, Algonquin College's Centre for Students with Disabilities

Representatives from Carleton University's Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities

What: Information session for the SAIL (Summer Academic Institute for Learning) transition program.When: Wednesday, April 20
7:00 p.m.Where: Rosser Boardroom C 539
Algonquin College
1385 Woodroffe Avenue
Ottawa, Ontario-30-*Contact:
Andrew McKelvey
Manager, Media Relations
Algonquin College
Office: (613) 727-4723 ext. 5450
Cell: 220-7796Louise Legault
Manager, Centre for Students with Disabilities
Algonquin College
Office: (61385 Woodroffe Avenue

Ottawa, Ontario

Canada

K2G 1V8Public Relations and Communications Department
Office: 613-727-4723

ext. 7664

Fax: 613-727-7610