

Master of Ceremonies

Lucy van Oldenbarneveld

Lucy van Oldenbarneveld is the host of CBC News At Six in Ottawa, and the driving force behind the Gotta Run! series.

Lucy's work with CBC Radio has taken her from Yukon, where she was host/producer of the afternoon show in Whitehorse, to Ottawa where she was Field Reporter and Friday host of Ottawa Morning.

She's also worked in the Netherlands and China, and as a host, producer and reporter with Deutsche Welle World Service Radio based in Cologne, Germany. She was Deutsche Welle's radio and television correspondent at the G8 summit in Kananaskis.

In the summer of 2003 Lucy took a leave of absence to travel to Africa to teach a radio skills course to people who work in the Afrinet radio network. And just last year, she took another leave to teach radio skills in Rwanda. Lucy was named host of CBC News At Six in Ottawa on October, 2006.

Originally from Hamilton, Lucy has a degree in Political Studies from Queens University. She has run her own consulting company, and was part of a comedy troupe that wrote and produced a two-hour live show of satire and music. She speaks English and Dutch.

Lucy's drive to put Gotta Run! on the air is part of her interest in healthy and active living. Her hobbies include skiing and cycling, and she ran the Seattle marathon in 2000. She says her time- which she has 'forgotten'- would have been better if it hadn't been for the hills. And the blisters. And all those miles...