POLICY

1. Technology is an essential component of many facets of modern higher education today including the core activity of teaching and learning. When used effectively, these tools can increase interaction between students and faculty, and assist the students to collect, analyse and apply new knowledge while supporting the development of independent learning, communication, collaboration, and thinking skills.
2. Students are encouraged to use College standard and personal mobile computing devices which may improve their learning experience and success. When used effectively, these electronic devices can increase student engagement and enhance their overall learning environment.

3. In order to ensure a productive and positive teaching and learning environment for all students, it is important that the learning environment is free of unnecessary interruptions or distractions that may inhibit student learning. To ensure the learning environment is most conducive to student learning, the use of mobile computing devices in the classroom and evaluation sessions is ultimately at the discretion of the faculty.

4. While in class or during an evaluation session, students are to advise the faculty member that they need to remain available due to a possible emergency.

Classroom

5. Generally, the use of mobile computing devices in the classroom is limited to note taking, accessing course materials, and performing a variety of independent or collaborative exercises assigned by the faculty. Unless approved by the faculty before the class starts, the use of mobile computing devices for personal surfing of the web, downloading of non-course related material, use of messaging software, or gaming is not to take place.

6. Regardless of the activity being performed on a mobile computing device, a student who is asked by the faculty to close the lid of his/her laptop, turn off the monitor or other electronic device, or simply put the device away must comply with the faculty immediately.

7. Students who require access to or the use of mobile computing devices (e.g. cell phones) for personal reasons during the class must obtain prior approval from the faculty or instructor before the class begins. Under no circumstances may personal phone conversations occur inside the class during normal scheduled activity.

8. Audio and video recordings of classroom lectures or activities must be approved by the faculty prior to the beginning of the scheduled session. Recordings may only be used for individual study of materials presented during class and may not be published or distributed without the consent of the faculty. Videos that contain images of other students may not be published or distributed without the consent of all students depicted in the video. Intentional misuse of mobile computing devices or recordings, or intentional misrepresentation when requesting the use of a device for recording, shall constitute a violation of this policy.

9. Disciplinary actions may be taken against students making unauthorized use of mobile computing devices in class under Policy AA18 Academic Dishonesty and Discipline.

Evaluation Session

10. The use of any mobile computing device during an evaluation session is not permitted unless the faculty has approved its use.
11. A student found to be using any mobile computing device during a test or examination without prior approval by the faculty will be charged with an act of academic dishonesty under the Policy AA18 Academic Dishonesty and Discipline.

Students with Disabilities

12. All members of the Algonquin College community have a shared responsibility to accommodate students with disabilities whose needs have been duly assessed by the CAL. Students with disabilities will provide their faculty with a confidential Letter of Accommodation (LOA) each term, which outlines any accommodation requirements needed in the classroom and for evaluation or final assessment purposes. As stated in Policy AC01 Students with Disabilities, these accommodations may include electronic or mobile computing devices. Faculty are to consult the counsellor who has signed the LOA, if they have questions or need clarification.

PROCEDURE
